

COCONUT CRAB CLASS

June has been another busy and productive month in Snow Monkey Class, with lots of interesting topics and activities. In literacy we have spent a lot of time doing reading comprehensions and work based upon classic poems in the English language. We have based a lot of our other work on two novels about the experiences of evacuees in the Second World War – Goodnight Mr Tom and Carrie’s War. In Maths we have done revision of some of the main areas we have covered this year as well as some quite complicated and challenging investigations. There have also been several enjoyable practical activities in IPC and Science. These include various science experiments, design projects, cooking, playing a koto (Japanese musical instrument), and producing Hokusai-style art works.
