

Safari Class

February 2023

In February in Safari class we have enjoyed welcoming and working with our new teacher Mr Andrew. In literacy we have been having fun reading our new book Stick Man, which we have used to help improve our language and storytelling skills. Our mathematics work has focused on subtraction, both mental, written and further applying in context. In IPC we have continued our treasure islands unit, where we used Google Maps to identify and label major cities and physical features of Japan. We then compared Hokkaido to the Seychelles, another island closer to the equator. We watched promotional adverts then used graphic design software to make posters for the Seychelles to attract tourists to the very different activities to enjoy!
